Northwood High School
Nappanee, Indiana
Volume II

Look our way; we're young and we're proud—proud to be a part of NorthWood High School and all it means to us. We live together, and laugh together; share our problems, dreams, and fun. A smile or tear is felt by all who see it. We are bound by spirit and the enthusiasm for life that swells through each of us. Every day brings new friendships, impulses and emotions—savoring the delicious taste of victory, dancing to the pulsating beat of the Three Dog Night, or being with that certain someone on a starry summer eve. We grow together, learn together, and mature together. We have made a new beginning; a place to belong. UNITED WE STAND . . .

Unity creates new atmosphere, new experiences . . .

NWHS—A dream explodes into reality.
Almost a thousand kids came together
And got lost together despite
Maps and room numbers . . .
Dodging workmen, band in
The surge area, unfinished auditorium
. . . Watching the school take shape.
The closed noon hour with Three shifts, no dress code,
and sectioned study halls—
All new, all modern;
All NWHS in '71 . . .
United.

As a climax to fall and the pigskin season, a crowd gathered around leaping flames in preparation for Homecoming. The following night the Panthers were mastering the Minutemen while three lovely girls stepped out of sleek 'Vettes. "Homecoming Queen for 1970 . . . Miss Gail Roeder."

Only one of the eighteen girls who sought the title of NorthWood's Junior Miss realized her goal. Gloria Rouch was crowned after presenting a delightful talent, ventriloquism, to the audience.

Relatively new at NorthWood, the crowning of the Basketball Sweetheart proved to be very colorful and elegant. After the ceremony between games, Becky Searfoss reigned as the 1971 Sweetheart.

The happening of the year for 300 Juniors and Seniors took place on Saturday, April 24. Guests were ushered into the castle-like atmosphere of the days of King Arthur and Romeo and Juliet. The highlight of the meal was undoubtedly the "frozen love" dessert! Nancy Mast was crowned Queen of the Prom and Neil Hinton received the honor of King. There was dancing amid castle walls and iron gates to the music of "The Massachusetts Assembly." Others enjoyed watching "For the Love of Ivy." Truly it was "A Time for Us".

ACADEMICS

... united in thought

Speech and English develop Concentration.

English IV class acts out the Laertes-Hamlet duel.

self-expression and interpretation

The ability to use English effectively serves as the basis of our English program. Courses may be either practical or college preparatory. Practical English stresses the fundamentals of correct grammar in both speech and composition. More creative writing abilities are developed in college prep. classes, considerable time also being devoted to literature.

The speech classes give junior and senior students experience in public speaking and debate, leading toward more effective expression. Drama gives students experience in the performing arts from directing and producing to make-up and acting.

Janice and Robin present their pantomime.

Many hours are put into a research paper.

Dave critically watches a dramatization.

Science—the key to the future

Something's fishy.

Discussing the birds and the bees.

Science is becoming increasingly essential in this rapidly advancing world. Because of this, North-Wood offers several courses in this area. For those who want a broad understanding of the physical and chemical world around them, physical science is available. Biology, the study of plants and animals, is taken in the sophomore year. In chemistry and physics, principles learned are utilized when labs are performed.

Charlotte carefully stretches and pins the worm's skin.

Accurate measurements are essential.

Physical fitness: a necessity

"Five-up, serving."

The skins are leading 12 to 10.

Art: expression and creativity

Art is not only a talent, but a skill. It is not as much a learning class as it is a class for the development of skills. In beginning classes students learn the basic concepts of art and learn how to apply them. Upperclassmen have a choice of studying either ceramics and crafts, or painting and printing. Whatever area the student chooses, he has a chance to express his ideas and gain knowledge. To get students to see and feel beauty within themselves or at least appreciate it, is one of the major goals of art classes.

Nancy prepares a film for printing.

Mrs. Rood advises Liz on her drawing.

Carol contemplates what to draw.

Preparing for the world of business

Developing business skills is a necessary factor to succeed in today's world. Besides preparing some students for future occupations, shorthand, typing, bookkeeping, general business, and office practice have other practical values. For college bound students, typing and shorthand may be useful; for other students, their acquired knowledge will be an advantage in life. No business courses are required, but everyone should be acquainted with the basic ideas, since business affects the lives of all people.

Shorthand: slur, dot, dash, doodle.

Figuring problems for general business.

Starting with the freshman year, many mathematics courses are offered. All freshmen are required to take either general math, which is a course dealing with problems related to everyday life, or algebra, which is the basis for all higher mathematics.

Plane geometry is a course taken by many sophomores. This interesting course is very important as a foundation for many vocations. Advanced algebra, which is usually taken by juniors, serves not only as a review of algebraic systems, but also digs deeper into new concepts of algebra. Advanced math gives seniors working toward vocations involving math a real challenge. Covering trigonometry, analytic geometry, and statistics, this course prepares seniors for further math in college.

With this new age of rapid transportation, foreign language is becoming a necessity for those who desire to travel. It is easy to travel to Europe or south of the border, and those who go want to be able to "converse with the natives." For this reason, NorthWood offers four years of Spanish and German. These language courses not only offer a basic knowledge of the language, but also a background of the culture from which the language came.

STOCKS AND BONDS

Several social studies courses were offered at NWHS this year. The purpose was to make students aware of history and ideals of the world. Economics and U.S. government, U.S. history, and civics are required subjects for seniors, juniors and freshmen respectively. World history is also offered, usually taken by sophomores. These courses include the different levels of government, the mechanics of legislation, and basic economic theory. They also teach the students about the world of the past, the present, and the future.

Psychology and sociology are also a part of the social studies department. Study of the individual is made in psychology and study of the man in relation to society is made in sociology.

Emmerson looks up his stocks for economics.

Farmers of the future.

"Here cow, here cow."

The agriculture course is aimed at developing skills and examining new methods for more productive crops. Vital to the agriculture student is his knowledge of livestock and crop growth. Of course, he must learn to take advantage of the most up-to-date methods. This year students sold seeds to local farmers and raised enough money to take a one-day field trip to Chicago.

Fred shows how to strip a chicken.

"Superchicken."

Lee Collins welds a lap joint.

Expanded curriculum

Manual skills are taught in several different shops. This is an important phase of education, particularly for those students who will soon apply this training in occupations after graduation. Mechanical drawing serves as a basis for later shop courses. Boys in basic electricity learn the fundamentals of electricity, eventually constructing items such as electric motors. Woodworking trains boys in the use of tools and the construction of shelves, desks, and tables. Metal and machine shop students acquire knowledge in the operation of many new modern machines. Building trades gives students an opportunity to learn carpentry skills. In auto shop students learn to service cars, most of which are their own.

Graphic arts students ready the offset press for printing.

The makings of a masterpiece.

Mike uses the lathe in machine shop.

Homemakers' time

The home economics department offers four years of varied units for girls who are especially interested in the art of homemaking.

Girls in home economics acquire skill in useful domestic arts. In the foods department they learn to prepare meals during their first three years. Neatness and cleanliness in the kitchen are stressed. The home nursing course includes care of older and handicapped people. Projects in the clothing department range from A-line skirts to spring formals. Social development and preparation for marriage and family life are studied in senior home economics.

From a mix to the mouth.

Every inch counts.

"Over the teeth, over the gums, look out tummy, here it comes!"

Cranium, scapula and tibia were a few of the strange words exchanged in health class. Beginning anatomists learned about the bone, muscle, and blood systems of the body. While studying the body, freshmen discussed and evaluated social problems and personal hygiene.

Each sophomore student is enrolled in drivers' training for three weeks before he can receive a driver's permit. This course teaches the rules of highway safety and gives practical experience in driving.

Practice makes perfect.

excellent season

The Panther gridders got off to a fast start, winning their first five games, and compiled a fine 6—3 season record. The conference record was 4—3 with NorthWood being in contention for the championship crown up until the final game.

The Panthers lost a fine group of seniors through graduation. These boys are Rick Abel, Randy Abel, Dennis Berger, Jeff Burnworth, Mike Cleveland, Neil Hinton, Dan Sheets, Wayne Weise, and Merl Wise.

Awards received at the Fall Sports Banquet were as follows: Dan Sheets, both the MVP and the Defensive Awards; Wayne Weise, the Mental Attitude Award; Greg Frick, Captain.

NorthWood posted the second consecutive winning season of its existence in compiling a 12—10 record. The season was highlighted by an upset over highly-ranked Penn and a near miss against Elkhart in the Sectional. Despite a slight slump midway through the schedule, the Panthers finished the regular season strong and ended with a good tournament. NorthWood finished fourth in the NLC with a 4—3 record, and Greg Frick was voted to the All-Conference second team.

The B-team showed streaks of promise in recording a 9—11 season record. These boys should be a big boost to the varsity next year.

Following a code of ethics and maintaining a respectable reputation for himself, the club, and the school is the responsibility of each Lettermen member.

By earning a letter in any of several varsity sports, an athlete is eligible to become a member of the Lettermen Club. In addition to this honor, he is qualified to wear a sweater.

The club ushered at home basketball games and also sponsored a dance this year. The club's highlight was a picnic for all members at the lake. Spring and fall sports banquets were held to give recognition to the athletes and coaches who devoted their time to the development of the athletic program at NorthWood.

Open Society

Open Society is a social studies club whose objective is to acquaint members with different opinions on current issues. Throughout the year, it has had a speaker on durgs and their abuse in our area, and a stock broker who explained the stock market to Society members. One of the most interesting meetings, which sparked quite a bit of debate, was when a representative from the John Birch Society spoke.

Student Council

Student Council is a sounding board for the feelings of students and an advisory body for the administration. It is through the student council that the administration hears the real feelings of the students and can act accordingly for the good of all.

Accomplishments of the student council this year include football homecoming, basketball sweetheart, ushering for open house, coke machine, honor study system, dress code revision, and various convocations throughout the year.

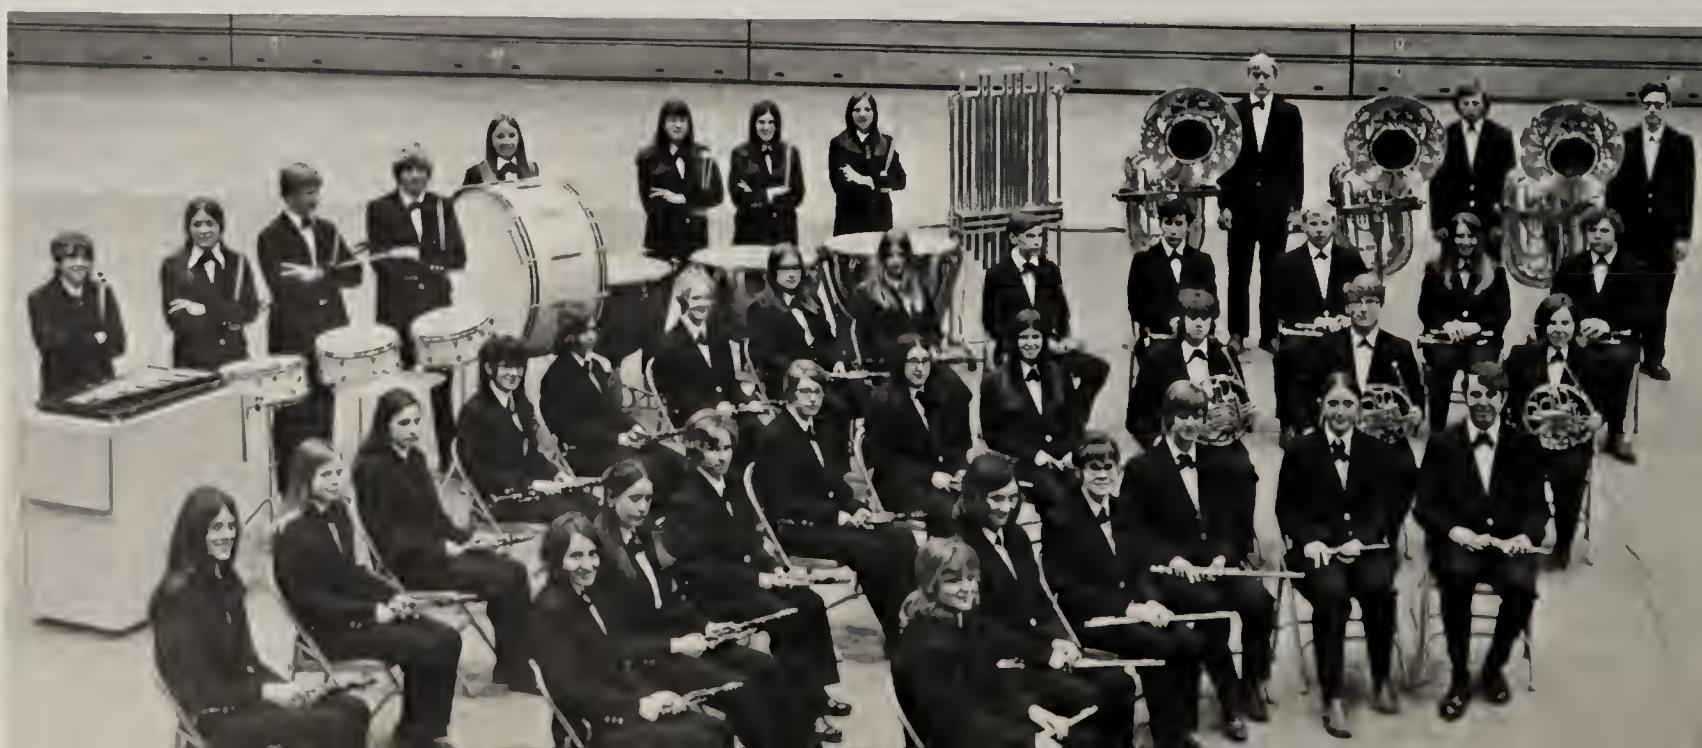

VARSITY BAND

Director William Henderson

Band this year was a real challenge—going to East Side for practice which was hindered by rain and snow; moving inside to the south surge; scattered horns all through the halls. Finally, the bands were in the band room for practice, but both concerts had to be in the gym.

The members this year had ample opportunities for perfection. The marching band, composed of seniors, juniors, and sophomores, performed at the football games while the pep band again provided excellent entertainment at the basketball games. For concert, the freshmen and sophomores combined to form the Varsity Band; the juniors and seniors composed the Symphonic Band. Last, but certainly not least, the stage band consisted of the best of both.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

National Honor Society members are chosen by a faculty committee on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character and service. A total of 15% of the senior class and 5% of the junior class is chosen. The National Honor Society provides ushers for all Civic Theater plays and earns money by selling cokes and checking coats at the plays. An induction ceremony was held in March for new members. An informal debate was conducted by old members concerning the grading systems.

CONCERT CHOIR

NW Choirs gain local fame

Three hundred students were in the choral department this year. The highlights of the year were the Christmas and Spring Concerts where the choirs performed before record breaking audiences. Some of the favorites sung this year were the "Hallelujah Chorus" and a medley of songs from "Oliver." These students should be congratulated on their great performances and many compliments given to their fine director, Mr. Heckaman.

SENIOR Y-TEENS

The most popular service club for girls was Senior Y-Teens. The members were not only serving locally, but also abroad. They had an Easter party for nursery youngsters from Elkhart. Senior Y-Teens also sponsored a bake sale to raise money for the support of their Taiwan orphan. A spring style show was put on for the mothers.

THESPIAN CLUB

The Thespian Club was another first at North-Wood. The group was granted a charter and named Troupe 797. Membership for the Thespian Club must be earned by accumulating a specified number of points through work in Drama.

SPEECH AND DRAMA CLUB

Speech and Drama officers. Vice-President Alan Niesley; Treasurer Helen King; President Jim Hartman; Secretary Judy Jamison.

The Speech and Drama Club met twice a month during Activity Period with Miss Hoover and Mr. Prenkert as sponsors. In the middle of the year members of the Speech and Drama Club tried out for parts in their production. On April 23 and 24 after many long hours of practice and stage designing, the Speech and Drama Club presented "To Kill A Mockingbird" by Harper Lee. The work certainly paid off as the cast did an excellent job.

PANTHER TALES

Every two weeks copies of PANTHER TALES appeared in the halls of NWHS under the capable leadership of editor Wanda Shaw. Because the newspaper was published every other week, much effort was required in publication in order to present a more than adequate picture of student life. This year, news, editorial feature, and sports editors kept the paper filled with informative articles to bring school and student closer together through the school newspaper.

PANTHER TALES Staff. Marcia Stutzman, Judy Wysong, Sue Wise, Randy Culp, Shari Osborne, Connie Leinbach, Sena Miller.

Editor Wanda Shaw with Advisors Mrs. Yoder and Mr. Rogers.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

A new club at NorthWood High School was the International Club, an organization for students in German or Spanish classes. The club got off to a fine start with approximately 150 members. Under the direction of sponsors, Mr. C. O. Aballi, Mr. C. R. Aballi, and Mr. Brugger, the International Club sponsored a dance. On Senior Class night the first International Club scholarship was awarded to David MacDonald, an outstanding Spanish student.

International Club Officers. President Bill Kurtz; Vice-President Kent Gwin; Secretary Sue Burnworth; Treasurer Jeannette Clark.

ART CLUB

Nancy helps decorate for Christmas.

Through varied programs the Palette and Brush Club achieves its goal of furthering students' interest in art. This year the Art Club sponsored two dances, decorated halls and windows for Christmas, and made plans to visit an Art Museum. Other planned projects included an Art Show dealing with flower arranging, commercial art, and weaving.

March 28—April 3 was designated as FHA Week. A special event was planned for each day. Cupcakes were provided for the faculty, bake sales were held during noon hours, and a dance was held at the end of the week.

At Christmas time, the FFA boys helped the Kiwanis Club by picking up Christmas trees. A few of you may have heard the boys on radio. To raise money, the FFA had a slave auction. The annual FFA banquet was a reward for the year's activities.

Oh! Those Seniors . . .

1971: concentration, frustration, and fun

Favorite senior passtime—college research.

It seems that by the time students become seniors, they would be adjusted to the school, teachers, other kids, and "how much one can get away with." Well, this year was different—it really mixed things up, but it was a new experience and it was fun.

All of the 197 Seniors can remember that this was a special year, but yet each had to make the same important decisions that plague all seniors . . . Whether to go to college—and which one . . . what to do about the draft . . . where to find a job . . . what to do with his life? The ones who travelled this long, hard road were awarded with a diploma, and the goal of "seniorship" was at last reached.

Running!

People running, running;
Nowhere special.
Not thinking, not caring;
So impersonal, not caring.
People running!
Watching out for only themselves:
Then wondering, why is there trouble?
Why is there poverty?
I've made it,
Why can't he?
He's black, I'm white,
Why should I care?
We're the same, that's why!
He's poor,
I'm well-off,
Why should I care?
We're the same, that's why!

If you can run, run,
If you can get away, get away.
If you can face the world,
Do it! Do it!
Things don't have to stay the same
They can change,
But only individually!
So, face the world.
It's your own!
No matter how much money,
No matter what color,
We're all the same!
People, quit running.
Face the world;
You can!
If . . .
You'll just quit running.

The Sophomore scene

The sophomores, prepared by a year's experience, crammed busy semesters with classes of increased specialization to begin preparation for graduation. With jittery stomachs, many took that all-important drivers test upon turning the golden age of 16. Mid-way through the year, the sophomores selected the class ring design which will symbolize their class unity and entrance into the ranks of upperclassmen.

Most sophomores made commitments to preparing either for college or for practical life after graduation. Except for the required courses of English, biology, and phys-ed, students can pursue courses which satisfy their interests.

“Where did you say room 200 was?”

Freshmen entered NWHS anticipating a “get it all together” year of extracurricular activities, instant popularity, and, of course, a new slate complete with straight A’s. But, then came discrimination, homework, decisions, and being pushed around by the other 700 kids to spoil the effect. Despite all these conflicts, members of the Class of ’74 still found plenty of time for parties, athletics, clubs, and just plain fun.

To be insured of keeping busy, freshmen are required to take English, health, civics, algebra or general math, and phys-ed. Other available courses include art, chorus, industrial arts, and home-ec.

Susie Stillson is the “man on the street” for the Freshman Homecoming skit.

Sandy Bollinger is escorted by Myron Miller for the Homecoming festivities.
